Figure S3:interaction of 15 key hub genes with other genes. Larger size of node denotes more genes are connected to that node. Nodes are colored from yellow to blue for betweenness centrality which signifies essentiality of genes in networks. The 15 genes are represented as squared nodes. The size grows with their "connectedness" accordingly to the number of genes they interact with, and the color ranges from yellow to blue showing increasing importance of the gene in the network